SOMETHING ABOUT PRINCE ALBERT.-Editor Washington Evening Star: In your issue of Saturday you did an injustice, without intending it no doubt, and you will, therefore, oblige a number of your readers by giving place to the following:

Under the heading "Snatched from the Grave,—Albert Edward, Prince of Wales," it tin McCarty,) that he was a dissipated scapegrace and an uncommonly bad husband; and, lastly, that he succeeded the Earl of Zeland as "Grand Master of the Masons of England;" while the facts are these: He (the Prince of Wales) was born in 1841; is not now, nor ever has been Grand Master of Masons, but is simply a Master Mason in good standing. And the Philadelphia Press (whose editor, Dr. R. Shelton Mackenzie, is at least the peer of Justin McCarty.) is authority for the following: "The Prince of Wales is a living exemplification of the adage, 'as well hang a dog as give him a bad name." This young man has lived on the best terms with his wife; never gambles; never kept a mistress; does not own a race horse, and takes no interest in the turf; lives within his income; chiefly indulges in field sports (hunting and shooting), which men enfeebled by dissipation cannot partake of to any extent. But he has a bad name, chiefly western papers, and therefore anything bad about him is taken for granted. G. P.

A HARD NARRATIVE .- A curious and droll story is told of the new President of Bolivia. who, according to the narrative, must be a sort of modern specimen of that Caliph who figures in the voyage of "Sinbad the Sailor," whose chief mission in life seemed to be to apply the bastinado to those whom he disliked. The Bolivian President, it appears, had a great fonduess for France. In order to testify to this feeling he one day sent for the German Consul and asked him how many victories his compatriots had gained over the French. remarked the representative of M. Bismarck, swelling with pride. "Well then," exclaimed the President, "let this man be taken out and apply fifty lashes on him." These directions were complied with; and when the President was informed of the fulfillment of his orders, he replied: "It is well. I desire only one thing else, and that is that M. Bismarck should present himself, and I promise to give him as much." The French papers are publishing this incredible story with much gusto. and add to it the clincher, "It is authentic." After this there can be no doubting the truth of the episode, which otherwise might fairly be deemed somewhat apochryphal.

FRANCE.—A paper on the national degeneracy of France, which is being extensively circulated in Europe, contains some facts of interest to the world at large. From the lecture of M. Jolly, a distinguished member of the Academy of Medicine in Paris, it appears that the use of spirits and of tobacco has frightfully increased, and that a mixture of brandy and tobacco is working an amount of deteriorization which will go far to account for the miserable display which the French soldiers made during the late war. Tobacco, it is said, costs Paris 500.000 francs a day, or enough to find bread for 2,000,-000 people, and M. Jolly believes that the double intoxication of alcohol and nicotine abundantly explains the wild saturnalia of blood and destruc ion which was lately held in Paris. The French soldiers, during the war, were so often muddled and blinded by drink and tobacco, when wounded, that they could not be cured the same as those of sober habits. The increase of insanity, especially in the military profession, is rising in exact proportion to the use of narcotics and stimulants.

MARRIAGES.—The connection between herrings and marriages may not be obvious to all, but the Scottish registers make it clear enough. In the returns for the third quarter of the pres-ent year the Registrar of Fraserburgh states that the herring fishery was very successful, and the value of a catch, including casks and curing, may be set down at 180,000, and the marriages were 80 per cent. above the average. On the other hand, the Registrar of Tarbet has to report a steady falling off in the fishing at that creek, and consequently, the quarter passed without an entry in the marriage register, The Registrar of Lochgiphead also returns that the herring fishery has been a failure in the loch and states that this accounts for the after due publication of this order, and do what blank in the marriage column this quarter. One registrar in his return for the quarter reports marriages in his district, "like angels, visits, few and far between;" at the fishing villages it may be put more briefly—no herring, no wedding.

WHO IS OLD? -A wise man will never rust out. As long as he can move or breathe he will be doing something for himself, for his neighbor, or for posterity. Almost to the last hour of his life Washington was at work; so were Young, Howard and Newton. The vigor of their lives never decayed. No rust marred their spirits. It is a foolish idea to suppose that we must lie down and die because we are old. Who is old? Not the man of energy, not the day laborer in science, art or benevolence; but he only who suffers his energies to waste away and the springs of life to become motionless; on whose hands the hours drag heavily, and to whom all things wear the garb of gloom. Is he old? should not be asked; but is he active?—can he breathe freely and move with agility? They are scores of grayheaded men we should prefer, in any important enterprise, to those young men who fear and tremble at approaching shadows, and turn pale at a lion in their path, at a harsh word or a frown. -Petersburg

Progress.

The trade in Circassian girls, says the Levant Herald of October 18, is carried on with a perseverance worthy of a better cause, but it is only just to the authorities to state that they appear to be making a steady effort to put a stop to it. Two additional "parcels" arrived on Wednesday last on board a vessel from the Rhell Sea in care of an old country woman of Black Sea, in care of an old country woman of their own, who was suspected by the police. Her story was that her young charge belonged to the Circassian colony at Pyrgos, and had come to Constantinople to visit relatives in Stamboul. This statement, however, was found DAY, January 9th, 1872, between the hours of to be false, and the Prefect of Police has ordered the girls to be declared free and to be suitably provided for.
